Dear mother:
This leaves me well and true that you are the same. You must excuse that letter I wrote you on the other side of the letter you wrote me, but I just wanted you to hear from me as early as possible and that was the best I could do. I happen to get this paper today, it cost me 25c for paper to write two letters. When I do come I can say that I have seen some of this country because I have been in five different colonies and expect to go some more. Tell all howdy and let me hear from you and my brothers. Tell Willie Mae to write.

PRIVATE FRANK H. THOMAS

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MY HUSBAND, BENNIE McCULLOUGH REEVES, WHO DIED ONE YEAR AGO FEB. 15, 1918.

There are griefs that can not find comfort, and wounds that can not be healed. There are sorrows so deep in the human heart, that can not be half revealed by day and by night, be borne the pain. To look for a cure was all in vain. Until God above, who thought best, called him home to his heaven of rest.

He is sadly missed by his wife, Mrs. Mollie Reeves, Kansas City, Mo., and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Mason Driver, Dallas, Texas.

"Up The Road With Sallie."

Tuesday and Wednesday, February 18th and 19th

Two days only. Featuring Constance Talmadge and Norman Kerry. Sarah Elizabeth Waters, known to her intimates as Sallie, returns from a convent school to find herself uninterested in the petty affairs of her small home town; and when her uncle's will provides her with five thousand dollars, along with each of the other legatees, she kidnaps her said old aunt in her car and sets out for adventure. Whichever of the heirs uses his initial bequest to the best advantage is to receive the main residue of the estate.

A storm comes up and the adventurers take cover in a seemingly deserted house where they later find two young men. One of them carries a locket which Sallie recognizes as her Uncle's and so she immediately suspects the boys of being criminals, when she unwittingly displays a big roll of bills, they too suspect her of burglarious entry. The storm continues for five days during which each pair tries to "reform" the other. Sallie and "Smith Jones" develop a great fondness for each other.

At the abatement of the storm, the sheriff quarantines the house, mistaking it for another from which a smallpox case has been reported. When he learns his mistake the ban on the place is lifted, and "Smith Jones" confesses to the aunt that is the legitimate owner of the house and reveals himself as the true lost heir of the Uncle's estate. The aunt keeps this news from Sallie, but after they return to their home, he summons all the family to a conference, and when "Mr. Joshua Cabot" is announced, Sallie looks up and sees "Smith Jones!" After explanations, they finally understand each other. There are countless laughs, punctuated with a few sighs and many tense moments in this interesting story.

Sergeant Everett C. Sanders of Camp Travis Likely To Deliver an Address Sunday. President Wells and His Aggressive Cabinet are Making Things Hum. Membership Daily Increasing.

In grand court rooms of Pythian Temple last Sunday evening a large group of Dallas Colored citizenry turned out in lieu to invitations extended to all orders, societies and organizations to be present at the meeting of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

By the presence of many new faces it was an evidence of the hearty approval of the movement and the work being accomplished. This was also substantiated by the enrollment of new names.

Judging from the report of a Committee, it will be only a matter of time before the members of this association will be identified by a unique button with an inscription bearing the initials of the association. Sergeant E. C. Sanders was present and was introduced to the association by Prof. Burns. He was then extended an invitation by President Wells to address the association, this was accepted.

The president in turn entertained a motion for adjournment.
